Chest Drive Over Top By $700

Late Gifts Push Fund Past Goal

More Pledges Expected

Two unexpected gifts and some hard work on the part of campaign personnel today put the annual Community Chest drive over the top by more than $700.

The goal was $122,635. Final reports showed a total of $123,342.

Although officially scheduled to close last week, the drive was extended one week. Just before noon today, the two extra gifts were reported, one from the Humphryes Manufacturing plant and the second from the Mansfield Permit Holders' association.

Humphryes officials contributed their entire goal, according to Willis Carto, campaign chairman, while the Mansfield Permit Holders association gave $300 in addition to its original contribution of $540.

Final tabulations this noon gave the figures as follows: Stars, led by H. D. Osmond, raised $62,663, and the Feathers, headed by James McConnell, brought in a total of $60,679.

Every up-town division, with one exception, made its quota, Carto said. These eight divisions raised $56,189 with a quota of $49,054. The three industrial divisions turned in $67,103. The quota was $73,581.

MORE COMING

More funds are expected late today or Monday, Carto reported.

"We are delighted to have made our goal in a year when Chests all over the country are having a difficult time," Carto said. "We are deeply grateful to the loyal workers and contributors who made the success possible.

"We are particularly grateful to those contributors who were able to increase their gifts this year in order to help us meet the additional USO quota for Mansfield and thus save the added expense and time of an additional drive."

Fliers Seek Lost Planes

SEATTLE —(UP)— Coast Guard, Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force planes flew low over north Pacific waters today in their search for three planes with 38 persons aboard.

Flyers combed the waters between Juneau and Ketchikan, Alaska, for signs of a DC-3 Pacific Alaska airliner with 15 passengers and two crewmen aboard. The liner was due at Annette Island near Ketchikan Thursday morning.

Rain showers and low clouds covered the north Pacific, hindering the search planes.

Royal Canadian Air Force flyers crisscrossed the west coast of Vancouver Island yesterday in their hunt for a navy P2V Neptune patrol bomber and its crew of nine. The RCAF planes widened their search today.

A storm in the western Aleutians hampered the aerial search for the third plane, missing in the Bristol Bay area with its crew of 12 navy men.

The first navy plane, a four-engined PBY-2 Privateer, took off Wednesday on a 10-hour navigational flight from Kodiak to St. Paul Island in the Bering Sea. It carried enough gasoline for 13 hours.

Trio Steals Pants To Forestall Chase

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Three men who robbed Max Weiglen, 40, of Wayne, Ill., last night in Cleveland made sure their victim would give no chase. After taking Weiglen's suitcase, containing a plane ticket for Detroit, and $4.50 in cash, the trio forced him to strip down to his shorts.

'Kitty Hawk' Enroute Home Aboard Ship

LONDON —(AP)— The Wright brothers' Kitty Hawk, first power-driven airplane to fly, was off for home today aboard the liner Mauretania.

The plane with which the American airmen made the historic flight on Dec. 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N. C., will be back in the United States in time for display on the 45th anniversary of the event. It will be preserved in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

Orville Wright sent the plane to England in 1928 because of a dispute with the Smithsonian over credit for designing the first flyable craft. When he died Jan. 30 he left instructions the plane should be returned to America.

Crazed Man Kills Eight, Wounds 4

Berserk Slayer Terrorizes City

CHESTER, Pa. — (AP) — Eight persons were shot to death and four others wounded today by a man who then shot himself to death when trapped by police in a nearby house, Police Chief Andrew J. Desmond jr., reported.

Desmond said witnesses told him the man leaped from an automobile in the downtown Bethel Court section, and fatally wounded Ellery Purnsley, a city detective who was on his way to work.

As bystanders rushed to the aid of the detective, Desmond said, the man opened fire, killing seven other persons and wounding four more.

The killer, identified as Melvin Collins, 38, then fled to the second floor of a nearby house where police converged on him opening fire with submachine guns, guns, shotguns and tear gas shells.

Samuel Hill, about 45, of Chester, fell with a bullet through his heart. He died ten minutes later in Chester hospital.

An unidentified man was wounded fatally through the head. Other victims were not identified immediately.

Descriptions of the frantic street scene during the shooting varied considerably with some witnesses reporting the man fired from the house while others said he jumped from a car and began shooting.

Police reserves were rushed into the area and terrorized residents of the neighborhood scrambled to safety as officers poured shots into the building.

State police reserves were called but before they arrived the man was found dead in the second floor room where he had barricaded himself.

Some victims of the shooting walked several blocks to the hospital unaided.

One unidentified woman, bleeding from one eye, reported there. She was semi-hysterical, and unable to tell immediately what had happened to her.

Chester is a city of 60,000 in southeast Pennsylvania 15 miles from Philadelphia.

Poisons Self, Admits Being Slayer of 3

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — (UP) —A moody college freshman claimed in suicide notes to have been the phantom killer who terrorized his home town, but police today launched an investigation with doubt.

H. B. Tennison, 17, of Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., was found dead in his rooming house here, where he attended the University of Arkansas. In the room with his body—he apparently used poison—were found notes telling that he killed himself because he was the Texarkana "phantom."

Five persons were mysteriously killed in the border city in the spring of 1946, and Tennison's notes said he was responsible for three of the slayings. He listed the victims as Betty Jo Booker, 15; Paul Martin, 17, and Virgil Starks, 36.

IT WAS DAMP—The rain fell in torrents last night at the Mansfield-Marion Harding football game at Arlin field, but the Tyger fans were there rooting for the team, anyway. Freddie Austin, 56 Lexington avenue (left), can't help smiling at the way the game is going, while Joe Rahall, 757 West Fourth street, offers encouragement to the players. P. S.—Both got wet.

Armed Forces Saluted By Band

By FRED THARP
(N-J Sports Editor)

Proving able mudders, Mansfield Senior high school's classy Marching Tygers saluted the armed services during the halftime intermission of last night's rainy Tyger-Marion Harding football contest at Arlin field. About 6,000 drenched fans saw the show.

The big Tyger musical organization had less trouble than the footballers executing their intricate maneuvers. The Senior high pigskin pushers slipped and slid all over the gridiron for a 12-to-6 victory over Harding.

All of the branches of service were given a musical treatment replete with appropriate insignia formations. Songs for the various services were: Army, "This is The Army;" Air Corps, "Air Corps Song;" Marines, "Marine Hymn;" Navy, "Anchors Aweigh."

The program was topped off by a flag formation and the Iwo Jima flag-raising tableau. All of the musicians formed a huge flag on the darkened field, using red, white and blue lights to "paint" the picture.

Commandant John Hallabrin and members of the Richland Detachment of the Marine Corps league enacted the Iwo Jima tableau on the Tyger Booster club's

Michigan Youth Jailed

Police Set Record In Waldorf Killing

NEW YORK—(UP)—A discarded match book cover and a casual boast that he "drank a quart at the Waldorf" put Ralph Edward Barrows in jail today on a homicide charge.

Barrows, 19, a tall, good-looking youth from East Grand Rapids, Mich., confessed, police said, that he killed Colin Cameron MacKellar, 56, a $20,000-a-year Canadian textile executive he had met in a bar. MacKellar's body was found in his suite at the swank Canadian club in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel yesterday morning.

Police said his skull had been fractured but death resulted from an abdominal hemorrhage caused by "somebody punching, kicking or jumping on him." Barrows admitted, police said, that he hit MacKellar once during a drunken argument and left him lying unconscious on the floor of his suite.

Police said the arrest of Barrows at 5:15 p. m. yesterday set a record for solving a homicide in New York City. Twenty detectives had been assigned to the case which was solved less than 10 hours after MacKellar's body was found by a maid at 7:45 a. m.

Barrows, a former automobile salesman who came to New York Thursday, was arrested when he walked into the West 45th Street cafe. A few minutes berore, Ruby Bartlett, 24, a barmaid told police that a youth who had been in the cafe the previous night had come in earlier and asked for a coke.

"No beer?" the barmaid said she asked him.

"I have a hangover," she said he replied, "drank a quart at the Waldorf."

Police had been led to the cafe by a book of matches found on the floor of the Waldorf hotel suite beside the body of MacKellar.

Chinese Reds Set To Oust Chiang

NANKING — (INS) — Chinese communists prepared today a political offensive designed to exploit their recent military gains, oust Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and create a new "coalition" government for all China.

Faced by a fast-deteriorating economy and severe military defeats, many high nationalist officials in Nanking have already told foreign diplomats privately that they have given up all hope of a victory over the communists.

'Details' Printed Concerning Alliance

Italians Claim U. S.-Slavs Have Pact

ROME—(INS)—Italian newspapers published details today of a reputed "secret Yugoslav-American agreement" which promised U. S. aid to Marshal Tito if he is attacked by Russia or any Soviet satellite.

There is no official confirmation of this story.

The so-called agreement is said to have been signed by U. S. emissaries and Marshal Tito, who is bitterly feuding with the Moscow-directed Cominform, at Brioni, near Pola in the Italian ceded Istrian peninsula.

The Rome press described the reported agreement as a logical development of the Moscow-Belgrade split.

The pact, first published by the weekly "Europeo," reportedly provides that if Yugoslavia is attacked by Russia or by a Soviet-bloc state, the U. S. will furnish industrial equipment and gasoline to Tito's forces.

At the same time, the U. S. is also said to have agreed to guarantee Yugoslavia's western frontiers.

The reported pact then goes on to specify the following:

1. Immediate withdrawal of troops from military installations in the free territory of Trieste and the Istrian peninsula.

2. United States forces are to occupy the entire free territory of Trieste in case of an emergency. They are to move up to the "Wilson" line. The U. S. pledges not to alter the administrative and political makeup of the present Yugoslav-controlled area of Trieste in the event of such occupation.

3. In the event of an emergency Yugoslavia will grant U. S. forces a transit corridor between Trieste and Austria.

4. A state of emergency will exist if Russia attacks Yugoslavia or remains "neutral" while a Soviet satellite—Romania, Hungary, or Bulgaria—attacks Yugoslavia.

5. In case of a "common war," Yugoslavia will place at the disposal of U. S. troops an ample beachhead on the Adriatic coast.

6. Yugoslavia renounces claims on the southern Carinthian area of Austria.

7. The U. S. agrees that in case of emergency, it will guarantee "absolute security" to Yugoslavia's western frontiers.

8. The U. S. also agrees that it will furnish, in the event of emergency, industrial equipment and gasoline to Yugoslavia.

UE 758 Ousts Steward

Burns Removed In Dispute

Roy E. Burns, an Ideal Electric company employe, yesterday was ousted as steward of Local 758, United Electrical Workers, for "anti-union activities."

The union accused Burns as a leader in an attempt to get Ideal plant workers to sever affiliations with the CIO local and join an AFL unit.

Local 758 officials said members voted unanimously yesterday to remove Burns. Card Meditz, 54 Plainview avenue, was elected to replace him.

Burns said a majoriay of the Ideal Electric workers had signed cards indicating they wanted to affiliate with the AFL union.

Asked how many members were present at the meeting yesterday Meditz said: "I don't know." Pressed further for an approximate number, he refused to make an estimate.

The revolt among Ideal workers began during a recent attempt to bar communists from holding office in Local 758. Spokesmen for the Ideal workers said they wanted to bar communists but were shouted down in a meeting when they tried to propose amendments to the union's constitution.

Local 758 yesterday criticized "forces outside the union who are creating confusion in the minds of Mansfield workers."

CONDEMNS 'RAID'

The union asserted that the policy of the UE had not changed since its founding. It also condemned other unions which, it was claimed, were attempting to raid Local 758.

One of the principal targets of the union's attack was the News-Journal.

In a campaign to influence its membership, members of the union distributed pamphlets yesterday sharply criticizing what it called "The News-Journal's hysteria campaign."

Meanwhile the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and AFL union distributed leaflets in an attempt to win over rebelling members of Local 758.

Give Honors To Newsmen

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The columnist who first brought Manhattan to the masses and the last of Ohio's "personal journalists" were piped into the state's Journalism Hall of Fame last night.

In a 90-minute program at Ohio State university's Faculty Club, this honor formally was given columnist O. O. (Odd) McIntyre and publisher Charles Landon Knight, both now dead.

The 20-year-old Hall of Fame has bestowed similar recognition to only 41 other men—men like James Medill, William Dean Howells, Whitelaw Reid, Edward Scripps, Warren G. Harding.

(The list includes two Mansfielders, W. S. Cappeller, founder of the Mansfield News and Frank G. Carpenter, journalist and world traveler.)

The late Charles Landon Knight for nearly 40 years fought a series of journalistic battles against practices he considered bad for the nation. He became nationally known for his militant work as publisher of the Akron Beacon-Journal. He died in 1933.

"Odd" McIntyre, the darling of millions of newspaper readers during the 1920s and 1930s, always considered Gallipolis, O., where he began his famed career, as home. He is buried there.

The column that brought him fame, "New York Day By Day", received the delighted attention of more than 15,000,000 readers a day.

Cleveland West Wins Track Meet

Cleveland West Tech this morning won the 1948 Ohio high school cross country championship over the two-mile Coolridge course.

Tied for second were Cincinnati Central and Akron East while Cleveland Cathedral Latin took fourth place. The host Mansfield Senior high school team came in seventh.

1,164 Ballots No Good

The number of disputed and defaced presidential ballots cast in last Tuesday's election totaled 1,164, Thomas R. Zeigler, clerk of the Richland county board of elections, said today.

Principal reason for the disputed ballots was the fact that persons voted for the Republican or Democratic candidates and then went over and voted for the Wallace third-party candidates.

Charles Innes, chairman of the board, pointed out that even if the one Wallace presidential elector candidate was voted for, in addition to marking the Democratic or Republican ticket, then the ballot has to be thrown out.

Innes said that about an equal number of voters marked the Democratic or Republican ticket and then went over to the third column, marking some of the names listed there.

NONE APPROVED

Since 32,525 voters cast ballots and since the total number of ballots cast for Dewey, Truman and Wallace totaled 30,962, that leaves 1,563 presidential ballots either disputed, defaced or not used. The board met last night to go over the disputed and defaced ballots. None of the disputed presidential ballots was approved.

Of the 260 defaced and disputed state-county ballots, 15 were approved by the board.

A number of issue ballots also were disputed. However, the board found that these were insufficient to change the outcome.

Board workers were again rechecking the $500,000 sewer improvement bond issue vote before releasing the official figures. That issued missed by fifteen-thousandths of one per cent. A 65 per cent majority is requred for passage of a bond issue.

GOP Eyes '52 Race

Stassen Seen Logical Head

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Influential Republicans are urging Harold E. Stassen to rebuild the GOP along more liberal lines with an eye on the 1952 presidential race, it was learned today.

Stassen, who was defeated for the party's nomination in June by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, has been swamped with letters, telegrams and telephone calls at the University of Pennsylvania where he is now president. Many of the communications are from Republican big wigs willing to pledge their support if he will take on the job of reconstruction.

Stassen himself refused to comment immediately on these developments.

"I'm not ready to make any statement," he told the United Press by telephone. "I think the situation calls for some reflection."

A Republican senator, known for his liberal leanings, said he believes it is up to Stassen to "reform" the party which was ousted from control of Congress in Tuesday's election upset. This senator said he himself is at work now on concrete proposals for the future of the Republican party.

A prominent former governor, who also has been preaching the need for more liberalism in the Republican ranks, agreed that Stassen is "the man to do the job." He said he expects to talk with Stassen personally, however, before launching any campaign on his behalf.

Dewey has announced he will not be a candidate for the nomination in 1952.

Sees Repeal Of T-H Act

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The CIO-PAC is looking forward to certain repeal of the Taft-Hartley law by the next Congress.

This was made clear yesterday by Jack Kroll, national CIO-PAC director. Kroll told newsmen "the Democratic platform says they will repeal the Taft-Hartley law, period, and we feel that as honorable people they will carry out their pledge."

Kroll, who also is chairman of the Ohio CIO Political Action committee, said the PAC wants the new Truman administration to see to it that "responsible labor unions are left free to perform their functions in the proper sphere, unhampered by restrictive legislation such as Taft-Hartley."

Pilot Reveals Flights

British Question Sworn Statement

BULLETIN

PARIS—(AP)—Russia charged today Greece, with the knowledge of the United States and Britain, is preparing to use poison gas in her war against communist guerrillas. The charge was made by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister.

★

PARIS—(UP)—A British spokesman said today that Britain has asked Dr. Ralph Bunche to refrain from presenting the United Nations Security Council with reports of a Soviet-sponsored arms airlift to Israel from Czechoslovakia.

The reports, revealed by American, British and French sources, were received in the sworn statement of a pilot who flew the airlift between Czechoslovakia and Palestine. The pilot said he quit because he couldn't collect his pay.

The spokesman said the British did not consider the statement substantial enough to lay before the security council for action.

He added that the reports indicated there also was illicit air traffic to Israel from other countries, reportedly including Panama and Italy.

RUSSIAN ORGANIZED

The pilot's statement said the airlift was organized by Russia in communist-dominated Czechoslovakia and supplied the Israeli army with the weapons of war from the big Skoda armaments plants. These supplies helped Israel win recent battles in northern and southern Palestine, it was reported.

The British spokesman said if evidence of the reported illicit arms trade continues to pile up it might justify laying the matter before the security council.

Other sources asserted, however, that the western powers might be embarrassed if the question of the airlift was raised publicly in the security council.

These sources alleged that there have been arms shipments to the Arabs as well as the Jews since the arms ban became effective. Armaments also have been going to Israel from places in the western world, it was charged.

Consequently, these sources said, public debate on the issue might be embarrassing.

Czechoslovakia has no "official" trade in arms with Israel, a foreign ministry spokesman said. Other officials admitted privately the possibility that some arms were being shipped from this country to Israel through "unofficial" channels.

Poland's Julius Katz-Suchy charged before the United Nations political committee that the United States is establishing military bases in Spain.

POLE RAPS U. S.

"We all know that the United States is trying to build an empire reaching far beyond its borders," Katz-Suchy said. "It is using what Senator (Robert A.) Taft calls 'dollar diplomacy.'

"We know that bases are being established in the United Kingdom, Spain, North Africa and the Pacific.

"We know how the United States, despite protests, has refused to evacuate bases on Greenland."

Dem Fight Shapes Up

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Sharp differences within the Democratic party on civil rights and price control became increasingly apparent today even amid the jubilation of the election triumph.

Southern congressmen talked harmony but warned ominously against any attempt by the northern wing of the party to ram through legislation outlawing the poll tax, lynching or job discrimination.

Vice-President - elect Alben W. Barkley went on record with a forecast that President Truman will ask the 81st Congress in January to fulfill the Democratic campaign platform by passing those measures without delay.

But Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D., S. C., an outspoken foe of the racial rights program, said "I'm still against it." The senator, who was one of the first to congratulate Mr. Truman when the latter returned to Washington yesterday, suggested that Congress let the individual states handle legislation on the poll tax and lynching.

Israeli President Reveals Objectives

By ELIAV SIMON

REHOVOTH, Israel— (UP) —Peace and work are the aims of the new state of Israel.

Those objectives were stated in an exclusive interview with the United Press by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, father of modern Zionism and provisional president of the new state.

The future Israel will probably turn its face toward Asia for close friends, he said. He suggested sending Israel's "best brains" to India to establish friendly relations.

"We ought to look to great Semitic nations," he said. "In Lake Success I talked to leading Hindus, including Mr. Pandit Nehru. With 400,000,000 Hindus who have no axe to grind, we could talk quietly."

Weizmann, his face deeply lined, his mustache and beard grey, sat in an overstuffed chair in his small office in this pioneer Zionist colony which was founded in 1890.

He is now 74. He looks much more physically fit since an operation in Geneva, Switzerland, to restore his sight. Dr. Weizmann, born in Motele, near Pinsk, Russia, is a world-known biological chemist. He went to London as a young man and took up his fight for a Jewish state.

Weizmann removed his dark glasses and looked through his window toward the surrounding citrus groves as he talked.

"We need peace," he said. "That is our first aim. Our second one is work."

The war in the Holy Land is virtually at an end, he believes, because of military developments in the Negev, or southern desert.

"Now we must make peace plans," he said. "Israel will become a big country—not geographically — but through development of cultural values, arts and science."

What does Israel have to offer its new friends?

"We are in a way an experimental station for solution of the great problems of development facing the Asiatic continent," Weizmann said. "We are bringing to the East the technical knowledge, experience and the spirit of enterprise of the West. We cannot achieve much in quantity, but we hope we may be able to create something here of quality that will stand up to our historical record."

What are Israel's economic prospects?

"Ours is a small country," he said. "We have few raw materials but we have an energetic, intelligent, well-trained population and we believe that provided we get necessary capital for development we shall be able to build up a flourishing economic and cultural life."

What does Weizmann think of the peace moves in the United Nations?

"I see that those who do not want peace—and by that I do not mean the Arabs—are thwarting every effort to liquidate this tragic conflict," he said. "They still seem to think they can bring us down to our knees by what someone once called a 'truce of attribution.' But the present situation is harmful to all concerned—particularly the Arab countries and the Arab refugees.

Automotive Companies Near Record

DETROIT—(AP)—The car industry, rolling on to a probable new production record, built approximately 112,000 vehicles this week.

The trade paper Automotive News put this week's assemblies at 87,473 passenger cars and 25,002 trucks; Ward's automotive reports estimated the output at 87,979 cars and 23,761 trucks. Last week the factories built about 89,000 cars and 22,000 trucks.

With this week's output United States production so far this year comes to about 4,438,000 cars and trucks.

Materials have been flowing a little more steadily into the car industry's supplier plants. Several of the factories also have been able to build up fairly substantial inventories of the materials needed for high volume car and truck output.

All this, together with a quiet labor front, augurs well for the expected 1,000,000 unit production during November and December.

Latest of the car makers to swing over to new model assemblies is General Motors' Oldsmobile division. It lost two days' output this week and will be down for about three days next week. The shutdown will be one of the shortest Oldsmobile has required for model changes in many years.

The closing will take about 4,200 units out of the industry's production this month, but several other plants, just going into new model output will be gaining momentum and probably balance out the Oldsmobile loss.

Already rolling out new models are Buick, Kaiser-Fraser and Nash. Cadillac begins its 1949 model run next week on a limited scale. Ford, of course, changed over several months ago and has been gaining volume.

GM's Pontiac division should have its 1949 cars ready for showing some time in December and the new Chevrolet is expected to be ready for the display General Motors is planning in New York in mid-January.

Tiny Camera Perfected

MUNICH (UP)—A 42-year-old German scientist said that he has perfected a wrist-band camera that will take 400 pictures on a roll of ordinary 35 mm. minicam film.

Dr. Rudolf Steinbeck, the inventor, has spent the last two years working on the first model, tucked away in a spacious mansion on the shores of Lake Starnberg near here. The house, nestling in the foothills of the Bavarian Tyrol once belonged to a Bavarian nobleman.

He said he completed the first working model this summer and will go into production soon. He said his little camera is an answer to his wife's complaint that current cameras are too complicated for a layman. Steinbeck made simplicity the keynote of his invention.

The tiny camera weighs one and one sixth ounces, looks like a wrist watch and is about twice as thick. Steinbeck says it is foolproof and so simple that it will take pictures at "a moment's notice," without being removed from the wrist.

The film is about four millimeters in diameter at the point of exposure, and may be enlarged to slightly more than two-by-three inches. Special films can be used to provide greater enlargement capacity.

The lens is a 2.5 special lens, which will shoot in focus from one meter up without adjustment.

The camera also can be used for color photography, Steinbeck said.

Korean Reds Rounded Up

SEOUL—(INS)—Many hundreds of alleged communists and communist sympathizers have been arrested in a huge roundup designed to forestall a projected new rebellion in south Korea.

The arrests were announced officially in Seoul today.

Within the past 48 hours, it was stated, "hundreds of communist leaders" were taken into custody in 12 major south Korean cities where they allegedly were planning to stage simultaneous uprisings.

Korean army headquarters announced "several hundred" other arrests were carried out within the army's constabulary units where "further evidence of communist activity" was said to have been uncovered.

In addition, Police Chief Kim Tai Sun disclosed that "several hundred" alleged communists and sympathizers were rounded up in Seoul, the national capital.

These included eight Korean students charged with having plotted to assassinate Police Chief Kim and south Korean Home Minister T. Y. Yun.

Talks Tomorrow

Dr. L. E. Lindower of Ashland college will speak both morning and evening at the First Brethren church, Bowman street, Sunday. At the evening service a religious film will be shown and a quartet from Ashland college will sing.

Maugham Writes His 'Final' Novel

Book to Go on City Library Shelves

Somerset Maugham's latest novel, CATALINA, a whimsical satire, is one of the new books which will be available Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

Although laid in Spain at the time of the Inquisition it is scarcely an historical novel. The lovely and talented Catalina is crippled at the age of 16. As the story unfolds she is cured by a miracle and after further vicissitudes, marries the man of her choice and becomes a famous actress. Maugham declares that this is his final novel.

TOWARD AN UNKNOWN STATION, by Allan Lyon, is a novel that reads like a diary. The author subordinates the philosophical and idealogical implications of the war to its physical aspects as experienced by an infantryman: monotony, cold, hunger, fatigue and fear. The plodding footsoldier emerges as the anachronism of modern mechanical warfare. This is an intensely realistic picture of the European theater of operations.

TIME WILL DARKEN IT is a well-written story of life in a small Illinois town at the turn of the century, by the author of THE FOLDED LEAF. How a visiting southern family brought disaster into the comfortable, self-sufficient lives of their hosts is the plot of the startling and not particularly pleasant novel.

THE THREE BROTHERS, by Michael McLaverty, is a pleasant novel of middle class Irish life. The brothers are a miser, a ne'er-do well, and a good man. John, the good one, binds the family together and his genuine Christianity makes the story remarkably satisfying.

Other fiction:

BUCKET BOY, by Meyer; CANDLE FOR ST. JUDE, by Godden; ON THE RIM OF THE ARCTIC, by Hendryx; LIVING IS EASY, by West.

Non-fiction:

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY, by Harold J. Laski, is an interpretation of American institutions as seen through the eyes of a British Socialist. Despite its strong bias, this is a very instructive book, which many reviewers have placed alongside Bryce and de Toqueville. Although long, running to nearly 800 pages, it is readable and thought provoking.

NEHRU ON GANDHI is a selection from the speeches and writings of Nehru, arranged in the order of the events, dealing with the life and teachings of Mahatma Gandhi. From these pages may be gleaned not only a great deal about Gandhi, but much about Nehru himself. From another point of view, it is also an exciting narrative of Indian Nationalist movement.

BREAKING NEW GROUND, by Gifford Pinchot, is the personal story of our first great conservationist. This sincere and informal book will be of interest not only to foresters and conservationists, but also to students and historians of the era of Theodore Roosevelt. It includes interesting portraits of many national figures of that period.

EUROPE ON THE MOVE; WAR AND POPULATION CHANGES, by Eugene M. Kulischer, is a study of population shifts from 1917 to 1947. Kulischer's thesis is that these movements are the major causes of war, and he advocates a planned policy for the future. Based on a careful analysis of all available statistics, the book is readable, informative, and stimulating.

IT WAS NOT WHAT I EXPECTED, by Mrs. Valentine Teal, is a book for one's lighter moments. These are pleasant reminiscences about the bringing up of four children. Mrs. Teal writes easily and gaily and has a simple, secure pride in her job as a Mother.

Other non-fiction:

CHRISTIANITY AND COMMUNISM, by Bennett; ROOSEVELT MYTH, by Flynn; I LEARN FROM CHILDREN, by Pratt; WHEN THIS YOU SEE, REMEMBER ME, by Rogers; REVOLUTION IN AMERICAN DRAMA, by Gagey; IN SEARCH OF SOUTH AFRICA, by Morton; THE LOST GOSPEL, by Luccack; CATHOLIC PICTURE DICTIONARY, by Pfeiffer.

New Drug Promises Relief For Easily Bruised Persons

PITTSBURGH —(INS)—Persons who bruise easily have been promised relief by a new drug which comes from buckwheat leaves.

J. A. Hailer, of Los Angeles, pharmaceutical expert of the Rexall Drug company, described the new drug at a meeting of district druggists in Pittsburgh.

Known as "rutin," it strengthens the blood vessels and prevents tiny hemorrhages on the skin which are indications of "capillary fragility."

Hailer said the drug was marketed recently but as a prescription for the use of doctors only.

He added that rutin may prove useful also in preventing retinal hemorrhages, which can cause blindness, and brain hemorrhages.

Another new drug is bacitracin, Hailer said. It comes from a mold, and though still in the experimental stage, Hailer described it as the "next great anti-biotic that will take over where penicillin loses effectiveness."

Penicillin also has been improved, Hailer revealed. A new form of the drug, procaine in oil, requires only one injection in four days, whereas previously some patients required shots every two hours.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1948

Drive carefully tomorrow—now that election is over you'll want to see what happens next.

It is being suggested that Dr. Gallup be presented with a subscription to the 1936 issues of the late Literary Digest.

Following a checkup, a board of scientists advises that "there are too many people in the world"—but there's no indication of a moratorium on production.

Can Poll-Takers Survive Ridicule?

NOW COMES time for sober consideration of those poll-taking enterprises, which have been built up into a big and remunerative business by several promoters of this form of testing "public opinion" on a wide variety of subjects.

Top notch in pollsters activities has been that of forecasting election results by means of "opinion" tests of sentiment in various sections and groups—and the dismal failure of this method was so convincingly disclosed in Tuesday's election that it may be doubted if such polls will ever again be taken seriously—as they undoubtedly were this time.

The sad story of the 1936 Literary Digest poll, which forecast the election of Landon, who in reality carried only two states, is being recalled as red-faced pollsters are now trying desperately to explain how their predictions of a Dewey victory happened to go awry.

The Literary Digest—valuable little magazine that it was—failed to survive the terrific beating given it after the 1936 faux pas, and whether or not this year's leading pollsters will be able to survive the adverse criticism and ridicule being heaped upon them is problematical.

Just how much the confidence inspired by false assurance of a Dewey victory given by the polls contributed to a lethargic attitude on the part of several million voters who failed to go to the polls can only be guessed—but it may well be considered as a factor in placing the national voting total well under what might have been reasonably expected.

Keeping An Army Prepared For War

THE ANNOUNCED aim of a new shift in the high command of the Army is to make it ready for peace or war, to eliminate need for sudden change in event of an emergency. If that aim can be achieved, an invaluable contribution will have been made to the security of the nation.

A notable modern example of keeping an army command ready for war while the army itself was rigidly limited by the demands of peace was that of the German general staff from the end of World War I to the open abrogation of the peace treaties by Hitler. With a tiny treaty army, the general staff managed to keep itself intact and to keep its own and subordinate officers thinking and planning in terms of large armies and large operations. Nevertheless documents now available indicate that the German army was far from ready for war when Hitler began to risk it.

The United States Army does not have the handicap of externally imposed restrictions, but the financial and psychological limitations of peace-time are a severe test for a command seeking to keep itself ready for war.

Resistance Groups Gathering Strength

ENGLAND, as the refuge of many groups of young people who have fled from Russian-dominated countries, is the home of a strong resistance movement.

Some of these rebels, who escaped from Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, and the Polish Ukraine upon the advent of Russian domination, are not seeking a permanent home elsewhere, as are most of the refugees from Nazi tyranny. They are described as planning to return to their homelands, armed and filled with the spirit of revenge, to wrest them from Soviet grasp.

Such refugees are employed all over England, but are unified by "free governments" in London and by common interest in the Lutheran church, to which most belong. They pray for war, and plead with the British to train and arm them. This ready-made resistance movement is not made up of intellectuals or theorists who work off their spleen in rabid talk. They are simple people, actuated by hatred and the desire for revenge, observers say.

The reactions of these fiery young people to the pressures of the Soviet system furnish reason for hope that it may not always be as it is now. A more constructive task than arming and training them for war would be the channeling of their abundant energy into projects leading to a more enlightened solution of the problems of oppressed countries.

Preserving History of Early West

IF YOU want to know about the past history of the West, go east. This is not faultless advice, but an argument could be made for it, now that the William Robertson Coe library of 8,000 items of Western letters, diaries, manuscripts and pictures of pioneer days in the West has been given to Yale University.

Coe is an insurance executive, born in Wales, an immigrant to this country at an early age. He bought the Cody, Wyo., ranch of Buffalo Bill in 1910, the year in which he began to collect his library.

There are accounts of little-known Russian explorers who worked south from Alaska 100 years ago and for a time had holdings in California. A more modern touch is lent by an original copy of the sheriff's poster offering $5,000 reward for Billy the Kid, the most famous bandit of a former generation. There are files of early newspapers which could not possibly be collected today. The material even goes into Canada, following the routes of the fur traders of the Hudson Bay company.

Only the Hubert H. Bancroft collection in the University of California library can compare with this.

Noting that "some people forever talk about banishing selfishness from the earth," Claude Callan has an idea "it would be a queer old world without any people in it."

Among "It-Could-Have-Been-Worse" comments, place: "Well, anyway, Wallace didn't get in."

What Some Other People Are Saying

VICE-PRESIDENT-ELECT BARKLEY: "We are going to move forward under unity. All I have for the 80th Congress is a Bronx cheer."

* * *

PRESIDENT TRUMAN: "I do not feel elated at the victory. I feel overwhelmed with the responsibility."

* * *

SECRETARY OF LABOR TOBIN: "Repeal of the Taft-Hartley law is a mandate with the people. I shan't rest until the law has been repealed."

Quick Now, Let's Put a Plug In That Volcano.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Dangers Lurk In Divided Government

"Now" is decidedly not "the time for every man to come to the aid of his party." It is a time for every man and woman to put the interest of his country ahead of party advantage, selfish interest and minority affiliation.

For an election has been held in which neither great party has received the sweeping electoral mandate necessary to govern strongly.

And this country, in its dealing with pressing domestic and foreign issues, never so greatly needed a strong government well backed by an unmistakable popular majority.

Into this election came two minority influences—the Dixiecrats and the Wallaceites. The Wallace vote, small as it was, topped the balance in some states, particularly in the election of members of Congress. Protest votes, North and South, carried influence far beyond their just deserts.

We have seen how dangerous a multiple party system might be to the process of popular government. It has weakened and in some cases destroyed republican governments abroad. It might do that over here. We escaped it by a very narrow margin this time.

Another factor in this election has been the influence of specifically selfish interests. The rural revolt against the Republican ticket in several Midwestern states will be ascribed to high farm prices and great farm prosperity.

Perhaps this explains why so many voters in states like Iowa and Wisconsin voted against a change. If so it will be a means of impressing upon politicians that they must always yield to demands for high prices, high wages and special privileges of all kinds. It will make political cowards of people who might otherwise be strong, resolute public servants.

* * *

Many Wrong Guessers.

THE DEFEAT of Ball in Minnesota by a combination of farmers who thought he had voted to deny them privileges and union workers who oppose the Taft-Hartley Act will discourage every young person who wants to enter politics and vote according to his convictions. Convictions were apparently not popular this year.

The presidential race was so close that no clear mandate can be ascertained. Dewey ran better than did the 80th Congress. The result leaves us with a government which is not too strong.

To say that patriotism on both sides should prevail over partisanship is not merely to repeat a copy-book maxim. It is to express a pressing practical necessity.

It will be the responsibility of the President, of strong and influential members of Congress and others to work jointly in all matters of vital domestic and international concern in order to maintain stability, sound finances and efficient government.

This election was a sad day for political experts, politicians and pollsters. The feeling of anyone who guessed wrong, in print or otherwise, must be the melancholy satisfaction that there were many others in the same boat. The wrong guesser feels like the man who was dying and knew he was going to the wrong place after life—there will be a lot others there.

The pollsters' trouble was probably in failing to give enough weight to those who refused to tell preferences. They were probably dominantly for Truman, and because it was so generally believed that Dewey would win, they hesitated publicly to declare their choice.

The people fooled the pollsters, the experts and most politicians. It remains to be seen whether they have fooled themselves.

The Nation Today

There's Trouble Ahead!

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Even while the country's still in a fever over President Truman's election, a cold little question creeps up and says:

"How's he going to do all the things he promised?"

For example: Repealing the Taft-Hartley Labor Law and getting his civil rights program for southern Negroes through Congress.

You can look for most of the 22 southern senators to work together to block the civil rights program.

They could slaughter it in a number of ways. The most obvious one: To talk it to death with a filibuster.

In 1947 a number of Democrats joined with the Republicans to pass the Taft-Hartley Act.

The Republicans were in control then. The Democrats will run Congress the next two years.

But there still are enough of the Act's supporters in both parties to vote down any attempt to repeal it.

Some of them, of course, might change their minds now and vote for repeal. Getting them to do it is up to Mr. Truman.

In the end he may have to accept a compromise to repeal only those parts of the act which labor hates worst. He owes labor a debt for the support it gave him in the election.

He has promised other things, too, including government help to education and a public housing program. Those things cost money.

And that brings up a very important point, since this is the first time Mr. Truman has been elected President. (He inherited the presidency in 1945 when Franklin D. Roosevelt died.)

That point is: There is a difference between Mr. Truman starting out on his first term now and Mr. Roosevelt starting out on his first term in 1933.

* * *

Quite Different Now.

MR. TRUMAN starts with a detailed program of what he thinks needs doing. Everyone knows it. The people elected him on it.

When Mr. Roosevelt stepped into the great depression in 1933, he had no detailed plan for getting the country off the rocks.

He played by ear, improvising as he went along. He could afford to. The public debt was very small then. It's gigantic now.

In 1933 the public debt was only about $19,500,000,000. By the time Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term in 1940 the debt had been increased to around $42,000,000,000. It seemed like an enormous debt then.

(The Roosevelt government had piled up the debt by borrowing to give jobs on WPA to jobless men, to make heavier payments to World War I veterans, loans to industry and farmers, and so on.)

But by the time Mr. Truman inherited the presidency from Mr. Roosevelt in 1945 the public debt had leaped to around $260,000,000,000, because of the cost of World War II.

A few billions of that have been paid off since 1945. But this year the Republican congress cut taxes. And now the government again is taking in just a little less in taxes than it is putting out for expenses.

The government's expenses are running around $42,000,000,000 a year—which was the size of the public debt in 1940—for things like these:

Running the government, paying off on some of the debt, paying veterans of World Wars I and II, helping Europe and building up the armed forces.

But more money may have to be spent on helping Europe and increasing the armed forces next year or the years ahead.

If that happens, the government probably will run deeper into the red.

That would mean increasing the public debt once more by borrowing money—unless taxes were increased.

And if that happens how can Mr. Truman put over new programs that cost money?

Summary of Week's Happenings

Truman Emerges Victor, Despite Odds

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Truman, who refused to accept the pollsters' "no" for an answer, defeated Gov. Dewey in the closest presidential election since 1916.

His spirited fight against the record of the 80th "do nothing" Congress and Republicans as "the party of privilege" swept in Democratic majorities to both the House and Senate.

The vote constitutes one of the most stunning upsets in national political history. It also amounts virtually to a one-man victory.

The Democratic party which had carried President Roosevelt to an unprecedented four terms was split behind Mr. Truman. The South had its own States' Right party, Henry Wallace, a former Democratic vice president, was supposed to have siphoned off New Deal supporters.

Convention Feuds.

The Philadelphia convention presaged anything but a happy campaign. Big city politicians and a group of independents tried unsuccessfully to draft Gen. Eisenhower. Supreme Court Justice William Douglas turned down a chance to run.

Mr. Truman got the nomination almost grudgingly. The South took a walk over the civil rights plank that northern liberals insisted on putting in the platform.

Sen. Alben Barkley was a compromise choice for the vice presidential nomination and he was rumored unhappy at accepting the honor which "like biscuits had been passed around until they were cold."

Public opinion polls indicated Gov. Dewey running far ahead as the campaign opened. Many political experts said the odds were too great to be overcome.

They pointed out the Republican ticket with Dewey of New York and Warren of California had a geographical spread while the Truman-Barkley ticket was concentrated in the east and midwest.

Republicans Were Confident.

The Republicans were supremely confident. Gov. Dewey and Gov. Warren campaigned on a lofty plane, refusing to debate specific issues. They preached a trine of unity and competance and talked almost sympathetically of the "tired, old men" in the administration.

President Truman doggedly set out to "give 'em hell" at every "whistle stop and hamlet" from coast to coast. He called the 80th Republican Congress "one of the worst in history" and cited its record on price controls, housing, labor, social security. He accused Republicans of being front men for big business and special interests.

Before he wound up election eve, Mr. Truman had traveled 31,500 miles, made 351 speeches and shaken more than 150,000 hands.

When the returns began to come in Tuesday night, Herbert Brownell, the GOP campaign manager predicted a Dewey landslide. Through the night at regular intervals, his predictions grew more and more modest.

At 11:15 a. m. Wednesday, Gov. Dewey conceded.

At Home

19 Cents on the Dollar.

The vast job of disposing of American World War II surplus overseas is almost completed.

The Foreign Liquidation commission reported to Robert A. Lovett, undersecretary of state, that 98 per cent of the planes, trucks, clothing and other material left in the war theaters is either sold or price-tagged, awaiting buyers.

Property which cost over 10 billion dollars has been sold for $1,994,759,000. This is at the rate of 19 cents on the dollar. Payment is largely on the installment plan.

What is left is carried on the books at a value of 178 million dollars. Much will have to be written off or sold as scrap.

* * *

Harmony In Glass.

The National Planning association is a nonprofit, nonpolitical association devoted to planning in America. One of its committees, studying the causes of good labor relations, has finished a survey of the plate glass industry—once bedeviled by strikes and sitdowns.

Since the last big strike in 1945, there has been harmony between the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co. and the CIO-Federation of Glass, Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers. Since then, the survey found, company profits have gone up and so has workers' pay.

More important than that, the committee found, both management and union seem to have found a formula for working together.

* * *

Can't Halt ECA.

Paul G. Hoffman, head of the Economic Cooperation administration, predicts that the "Moscow-directed" French coal strike may be Russia's last big try at preventing European recovery.

Just back from a European survey, Hoffman thinks that Russia probably will continue its attempts to hamper efficiency of the American foreign aid program but he called the French coal strike "its last determined effort."

From now on, he believes, Communist ability to halt recovery will wane. He said the trend in Europe has been reversed and is now against Russia.

Reports from ECA missions in all countries show that they are making good their pledges of self help and mutual aid, he said.

Abroad

Strife and Bloodshed.

Gunfire and violence beat a tattoo this week in the world's trouble spots: China, Palestine, Korea, Greece and Indonesia. A new government took over in Peru after a bloodless, three-day revolution.

"China must accept the lesson of defeat by the Communists and fight on," Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told his Nationalist government after the loss of Mukden, Manchuria's greatest city.

Israeli troops are in control of all northern Palestine after a two-day blitz, driving remnants of the Arab "liberation army" of Fawzi Pasha Al Kaukji out of Galilee across the Lebanese border.

The main strength of the South Korean revolt, believed Communist-directed, has been put down but savage guerrilla attacks are expected sporadically throughout the winter. Many rebels fled to the Bjrren mountains with their weapons.

In Greece, King Paul persuaded the government headed by Premier Themistokles Sophoulis not to resign after a cabinet crisis.

New Production Records.

Industrial production in western Germany has risen to another new postwar record. Output in the British and American zones (Bizonia) has increased about 34 per cent since currency reform was inaugurated last June, according to the American Military government.

Postwar records were set in every industrial group except coal.

The report says Bizonia's industrial gains now are leveling off and the economy is entering a new phase. Futher improvement will be contingent upon higher production and better utilization of coal and electric power.

Tightening Tito Line.

Yugoslavia may be ready to drop the pretense of good relations with the Cominform countries.

Belgrade is reported almost unanimous in the belief that the patience of Premier Marshal Tito has been stretched to the breaking point by the latest expulsion of Yugoslav diplomats from Hungary.

Up to now Tito has hesitated to break with the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) because he did not want Yugoslavia identified with the anti-Soviet west.

Let That Be a Lesson!

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—Harry S. Truman knows the folks who vote.

He demonstrated very satisfactorily, as far as this reporter is concerned, that he knows more about the psychology of the people of his country than the paid-by-the-hour psychologists, the "experts" who were so very sure he couldn't possibly win, including this blushing exhibit, and the professional pollsters who think they can chart what people think.

And, with his perception of human nature, he did the trick all by himself, with no outside help. He alone, apparently, had the magnificent obsession that he could win.

His victory was not only a tribute to his own sound sense and a sure political intuition, his courage, his faith in himself and in the people, his dogged persistence in a gruelling campaign, but it was also a tribute to the sound sense of the American people.

They demonstrated again that, given the chance, they are nearly always able to distinguish for themselves between the real and the artificial, the honest and the phoney, with that rare discernment that has made our democracy the living, vital thing that it still remains in a world of confusion and considerable sham.

The party had little money. In many states the organization was weak and handicapped by dissension. Many candidates on the Democratic ticket would not even mention his name for fear it would endanger their hold on their own jobs.

Explaining the "Miracle"

IT WAS a modern Pied Piper performance. The President set out over the country piping his story. Nobody seemed to pay too much attention. Then, come election day, somehow or other they got in line, a great multitude of them, and walked in and voted for him.

His election is regarded as virtually a miracle. This all-wise town is filled with little groups here and there asking, "What happened?" It is a miracle, in a way, and yet when you follow the trail back carefully the simple plan evolves, and you wonder why nobody saw it.

There are enough plain people in all walks of life in this country to elect a president, and this embraces two groups highly organized, industrial workers and farmers.

Harry Truman emerges as a kind of Andrew Jackson character, a plain man of the people against those who would exploit them. And he owes nobody anything, not the big interests which spent so much money and planned so carefully to get him out of the way; not the Dixiecrats who were left out in the cold with their prejudices by his victory; not a lot of "summer-time Democrats" who refused to lift a hand for him; not the labor leaders who a few months ago were trying to dump him but rallied about him for self-preservation.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FIND JOY IN LEARNING

TO LEARN something brand new is perhaps the greatest experience there is. I remember well the day our daughter learned to walk. She was on the grass of the farmhouse lawn at her grandfather's place, where we spent that summer. She had learned to pull herself up to things, and we saw her lean against the rough bark of the big pine tree, then pull herself up and cling, looking back to see if we noticed. My wife and I both looked on. I held out my hands, and said "Come."

All at once she ran! Several toddling steps a distance of 30 feet or more — with eyes bright and laughing and eager! It was the bright spot of her day—an event of my lifetime. I shared her eager joy and satisfaction. The first steps alone—every human soul craves that satisfying urge fulfilled.

It was later on that our boy had the engine fever. A big thresher came to our place with a mammoth steam rig, and the little boy clambered up to the driver's place and was allowed to blow the whistle until white steam-like fog filled the small high-roofed enclosure.

Every evening after that he would climb on my lap and say, "Daddy, how soon can I have an engine? Let's talk about engines, Daddy." It became a game between us. I feel there is nothing more gratifying than to satisfy the wondering, dreaming curiosity of an eager mind . . . or better still to help it to satisfy itself.

What fun such men as Emerson, Franklin, Howe, Bell, Edison, must have had—more hours of earthly paradise than is measured to many boys.

This is the reason for our great American high schools and colleges where learning becomes a joy and sacred delight. The craving for intellectual and spiritual growth—the search for and the finding of new truth—has divinity in its lifting power.

Children have more fun than most people because they have more things to find out and to try for the first time. I hope I may never lose the urge to wonder and to ask questions.

Terms New York Distillery Union A Racket, Its Head a Scoundrel

Although many of our unions are communist fronts of an enemy nation and others are plain rackets like Mussolini's labor front, the fact remains that our native union movement has iniquities of its own and has not had to worry anywhere.

Proud of his criminal traditions, the American union goon can hold up his head in any society of cutthroats. He was notorious when Roosevelt and a poltroon congress passed the Wagner act and the debilitating Frankfurter anti-injunction law which bore the names of Norris and LaGuardia. He has become bolder and more felonious with the years under government protection, confident always that he has a partisan on the supreme court who holds him blameless of crime bearing the union label.

Frankfurter, who often passes on union cases, is one of those who delivered the American citizen into the brutal custody of the criminal racketeer.

Of course, this is general comment, but I, alone, of the savants on the subject, often resort to unqualified charges.

As a particular case I offer the constitution of Local 1 of the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers union of New York. This is a racket run by a typical union scoundrel, Ben Pross, whose greatest protection is Frankfurter's law forbidding federal judges to enjoin him from rioting to drive citizens into his corral.

The salaries of Pross, whose title is executive business manager, and of the other "elective" officers are not stipulated. They just help themselves. Pross managed to buy a beautiful country estate, a power boat, and a couple of cars and to remodel the house and landscape the grounds soon after the war. He would seem to have spent about $80,000 on the better way of life at Lake Mahopac.

DOMINATES UNION

Pross actually dominates this union and many others whose total power is sufficient to blackmail the entire liquor industry in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Big whiskey companies bow to his demands lest he pull the labor out of their plants without consulting these people. And bottlers and even package stores and bars are in his power in the same way.

Now we note further that the boys have constitutional authority to hire all their relatives and gangster friends for hypothetical duties and that the president "shall be the sole judge" of their salaries. He also appoints all the election tellers.

Pross is custodian of all the union's property, which, of course, includes its bankroll and books. He may spend as much as he wants to "further the welfare" of the members. He, too, may employ all his relatives and other thieves like himself to "campaign" for the union.

"Members nominated for office" must be seconded, but there is no nominating process in the constitution. No date or season is set. No method is provided, and there is absolutely no provision for membership meetings for any purpose, ever.

"Meetings" are mentioned several times, but all the constitution says about this is that they shall be held "at such date and place as the executive board shall designate."

This is a typical union of the American Federation of Labor.

Sums Up Post-Election Odds and Ends, Admits Blushing at Error

NOTES OF A NEW YORKER—

Make no mistake about it, the 15 to 1 odds against Truman were justified, which makes his victory all the more remarkable. . . . He had to defeat not only half of his own party but half of his own cabinet. . . . There is no way to describe his triumph except if you can imagine a cow pony beating Man o' War and Citation in the same race, Jonah swallowing the whale, the camel going through the needle's eye, the moon jumping over the cow, the Grand Canyon filled with razor blades and Joe Louis taking the count from a punch by Billy Rose. . . . Harry Truman has broken all records He even had to make the show—in order to steal it.

It is about time all politicians—of all parties—brushed up on American history. . . . This Republic did not start with an election and it cannot end that way. . . . It started with 13 colonies as allies in a fight and finished with 48 states in a nation.

This country was strong and a going concern before either the Republican or the Democratic parties was born. Nations are built by a people, not by political parties.

The character of this nation was moulded in the log cabins and the covered wagons—not in the back rooms of conventions.

No political party ever built a railroad—ran a blast furnace or invented an engine. . . . Ninety-nine percent of your life—and the rest of the world's, too, depends upon scientists — engineers, machines and labor, in a magic combination that spells out the miracle of this century—American Industrial Production.

The American People today are superior in strength to any group of their foreign enemies. . . . Not only that—but with their free press and their free vote—they are more powerful than all the puny, peanut politicians in the world.

As the Gallup Poll goes—so goes Dewey. Some time ago, an article in Harper's magazine revealed that Dewey has had members of the Gallup Poll staff aiding him in taking soundings on most of his statements before he released them. . . . "If the response was poor," the mag pointed out, "Dewey withheld the statement or revised it to meet the objections reported in the survey."

★

Dewey is very touchy about the most innocuous criticism—hence he has had difficulties with newspapermen. . . . Reporter Forrest Davis once wrote a five-part series on Dewey for the Satevepost. The articles praised Dewey—however he complained to the mag editors. Financing Plan Puzzles Legionnaires

Want to Help Schools; But Can't Find Way

The American Legion Vetsville management would like to help Mifflin schools out of their financial difficulties but can't find a legal way to do it.

That was the conclusion reached last night at a meeting of Legion officials who discussed the dilemma of the schools east of Mansfield which serve 34 children of Vetsville.

McVey post manages Vetsville, but the property, owned by the Muskingum Conservency district, is tax free.

Residents of Mifflin township think the Legion should help finance the schools in view of the large number of veterans children attending them.

James L. Zimmerman, manager of Vetsville, said last night the Legion had offered to pay the county auditor $300 a year in lieu of taxes.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

"However, the Legion merely manages the property, and I found that our money could not be accepted by the county on that basis," Zimmerman said "The real owners, the Muskingum Conservancy district would not take our money and pay the taxes for fear of starting a precedent on paying monies on supposedly tax-free land."

Vetsville, started two years ago, houses 75 veterans and their families. It was built at an initial cost of $250,000 by the Federal Housing Authority. Rents go into a maintnance fund. Any money left over at the end of the year must go to the FHA in Washington.

"The American Legion doesn't make one red cent on the community," declared Joseph Denig, McVey Legion post commander.

"As managers we are willing to try to find some solution to this dilemma," said Zimmerman, "but any other financial arrangements must not only be acceptable to the Vetsville committee, but must also be passed on by the FHA in Washington."

Man, Woman Injured

Two persons were injured last night in separate traffic accidents in Mansfield.

Mrs. Frank Brown, of Lucas, suffered a fractured right leg, when the car in which she was riding struct another at Park avenue west and Sturges avenue, and Chester J. Huston, 41, of 256½ South Main street, was struck by a panel truck while he was walking on South Main street. He suffered contusions of the right arm.

Mrs. Brown was in a car driven by Shirley Joan Robinson which struck the car of Fred Scheurer, 383 North Mulberry street about 7 p. m. yesterday. Miss Robinson was attempting to make a left turn into Sturges avenue from Park avenue west, and Scheurer's car was coming from the opposite direction. Neither was able to stop in time because of the slippery street conditions, police said.

Miss Robinson was cited to appear in municipal court Nov. 10 to answer a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way. Mrs. Brown was taken to Mansfield General hospital.

Huston told police he had alighted from a car in front of his home and was walking to the rear of the auto when he was pinched between a truck driven by M. L. Schmid, 111 West Raleigh avenue, and his car. A passerby took Huston to Mansfield General hospital where he was treated and released.

Pine Says Defective Men OK'd

Carrigan Says, "Who's Pine?"

In a sharply worded statement today, Capt. R. L. Pine of the United States Army claimed that the taxpayers' money is being literally thrown away because of improper screening by area selective service draft boards.

It costs approximately $15, besides the time and energy of Army personnel here, to put a man through the pre-induction physicals, claimed Capt. Pine. And yet, he added, some boards are sending us men with glaring disabilities. "Just the other day one board accepted a man being held under bond for rape and sent him up here," Pine exclaimed, "and we naturally would not accept him."

"Other boards keep on sending us illiterate men, men with one eye, and countless other obvious handicaps." Pine went on to say, "and the taxpayer suffers more than anyone."

The draft board members are voluntary workers and each board has been assigned a consultant physican, whose services are also voluntary. If there is any question of a man's known defect or of an obvious one, then the services of the consulting doctor should be used before the man is sent to the pre-induction center, Capt. Pine said.

CARRIGAN EXPLODES

"Only 25 per cent of those examined last month, that is, only 26 men out of 97 were found acceptable," declared Pine, "as compared to an average 80 per cent accepted from sporadic enlistments."

The Mt. Gilead draft board, according to records, has the excellent record of having an average of 80 per cent of their men accepted by the Mansfield Army induction center.

James F. Carrigan, head of the Mansfield draft board, when asked for his comment on Pine's charges, explosively exclaimed, "Who in the hell is Capt. R. L. Pine?"

The examining center here covers the seven counties of Knox, Ashland, Morrow, Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, and Richland.

Close Down White House

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The White House will be closed "immediately" to all sight-seeing and social events for extensive repairs to the 150-year-old historic structure, it was announced today.

It was assumed, but not certain, that President and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, also would move from the White House.

Mrs. James Helm, White House social secretary, made the announcement.

She said she could not elaborate on what "immediately" meant, but indicated it meant after today.

The formal statement she issued to a news conference said merely that the executive mansion would be closed to all sightseeing and social events "until further notice."

It has been speculated that the presidential family would move across Pennsylvania avenue to the Blair house, which has been used to house visiting dignitaries.

Motorists Pay Fewer Traffic Violation Tickets In October

The City Traffic department collected on 777 traffic tickets during October, the department's monthly report showed today. In the previous month 1,024 tickets were paid.

The decrease is due to the fact that the department was one man short all through October, Acting Traffic Commissioner Robert Garver explained. Garver ordinarily works on traffic, but last month was assigned to take over the duties of Traffic Commissioner F. C. Boals who is ill.

Police investigated 120 accidents, 15 involving injuries in September.

The number of persons arrested in October, including traffic violators, totaled 266, an increase of 76 over the September figure.

Nine Killed as Tornadoes Rip Through Four-State Area

Crops Lost, Scores Hurt By Twisters

Southern States Suffer High Loss

(By International News Service)

Four southern states today counted at least nine fatalities, scores injured and heavy property damage in the wake of sudden, hard-hitting tornadoes.

The off-season tornadoes cut a crazy-quilt pattern across Georgia, Mississippi, Kentucky and Louisiana yesterday.

Most of the damage occurred at points in the lower Mississippi valley states.

Yazoo City, Miss., reported seven persons killed. Twenty-one other persons were injured.

The child killed was Georgia White. Her parents and two other girls in the family suffered critical injuries.

Sheriff Sam Parker of Yazoo county said the "sneak" tornado whipped in suddenly, smashing flimsy buildings and jumping to its next destination.

The same tornado apparently cut a path from Sicily Island, La. to Yazoo county and then on to Ripley, Miss.

An 89-year-old woman was killed in Ripley, and the other known fatality was reported in Louisiana. Fifteen other persons were injured.

Residents of Cecila, Ky., were jarred from beds in the early dawn. Buildings were shattered and other damage reported.

Corn farmers reported that the whirling winds had carried away their crops like a huge siphon.

Two persons were injured at Cedartown, Ga., by a tornado which struck viciously and leapfrogged out of sight in a few moments.

Plate glass windows were shattered and telephone and electric light services disrupted.

Heavy rains accompanied the twisters, and Red Cross crews were struggling through gumbo mud to perform rescue and rehabilitation work.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 7

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of a difficult and unhappy state of affairs, in which a personal trend to irritability, a sharp tongue or other expression of sharp, sensitive or injured feelings is forecast. Such impulses may incite to disagreeable conduct, with very regrettable reactions on domestic peace, on the physical condition of self and all contacted. A sarcastic and irresponsible state of mind may be attributable to stressed nervous tension. Seek relaxation, diversion.

Those whose birthday it is, may be the means of their own undoing, largely through the stress and strain of a nervous or bodily condition. This inciting to hasty, sharp, reckless and sarcastic words and acts, with unhappy and unprofitable reaction on all relations, business and private. Hasty changes, mistakes of judgment, false and curious imaginings, could bring about loss of funds, position and security, with litigation and much anxiety and disruption.

A child born on this day may be disposed to turbulent and temperamental conduct, with errors of judgment, disastrous moves and unhappy reactions on its own and family peace of mind and well being.

For Monday, November 8

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and exciting day in which a proclivity for rushing headlong into strange, curious or inexplicable ventures may be due to overwhelming feelings and emotions. Day dreams, fancies, unrealistic visions or drives may set aside all plans for practical and constructive efforts. Although ideas may be workable if soundly and energetically developed, such peculiar tactics forfeit aid from higher-ups or friends.

Those whose birthday it is, are confronted by a singular state of affairs in which sound and objective ideas and abilities may be defeated by the more insistent urges to dream, indulge in curious fancies or by the over-weening urge to indulge in romantic, fantastic and impractical feelings or ambitions. This may be the means of forfeiting cooperation of needful support of superiors, who might be interested in workable propositions, even though moody or bizarre. Translating the subjective into the objective might prove spectacular, dramatic, profitable.

A child born on this day, although naturally introspective and a day dreamer, impelled by emotions and moods, could as well prove to have practical and progressive objectives and ideas, if regulated, co-ordinated.

Left to right, standing, are David Mallaby and James Zehner. Seated, left to right, are Gerry Rice and Gleana Riddle. They had leading parts in the two plays.

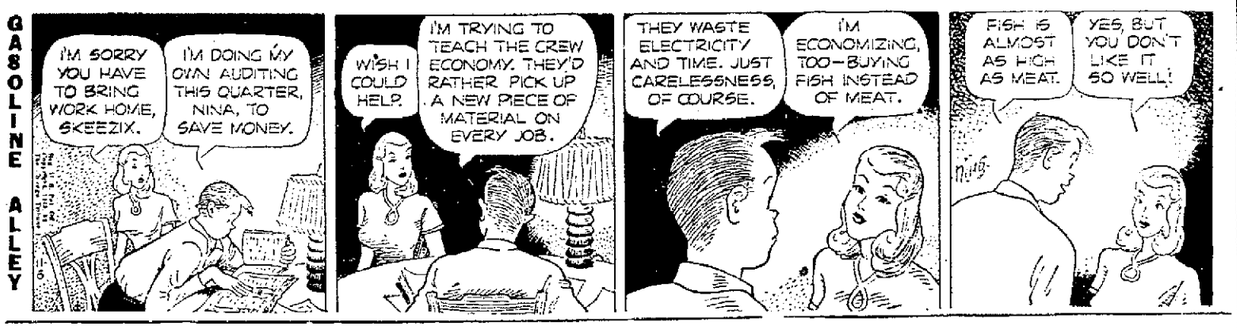
TERRY! LISTEN! SMALL ARMS FIRE! THE RAIDING COLUMN MUST BE IN CONTACT WITH THE GARRISON.
THE WORD YOU BRING THAT MY SON IS HELD WITHIN THIS CITY COMES TOO LATE...IF ONLY THERE WERE TIME TO SEARCH...
QUICK! WHAT DID THE FIFTH COLUMN ORDER YOU TO DO? ... AND WHEN?
THERE IS A NARROW PASS INTO THE CITY ON THE FLANK. IF I DO NOT CONTRIVE TO WITHDRAW ITS DEFENDERS IN EXACTLY TWELVE HOURS, MY SON CEASES TO EXIST.
WELL, SLOW JOES, WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR? WE'VE ONLY GOT ELEVEN HOURS AND FIFTY-NINE MINUTES LEFT.

GASOLINE ALLEY



I'M SORRY YOU HAVE TO BRING WORK HOME, SKEEZIX.
I'M DOING MY OWN AUDITING THIS QUARTER, NINA, TO SAVE MONEY.
WISH I COULD HELP.
I'M TRYING TO TEACH THE CREW ECONOMY. THEY'D RATHER PICK UP A NEW PIECE OF MATERIAL ON EVERY JOB.
THEY WASTE ELECTRICITY AND TIME. JUST CARELESSNESS, OF COURSE.
I'M ECONOMIZING, TOO—BUYING FISH INSTEAD OF MEAT.
FISH IS ALMOST AS HIGH AS MEAT.
YES, BUT YOU DON'T LIKE IT SO WELL!

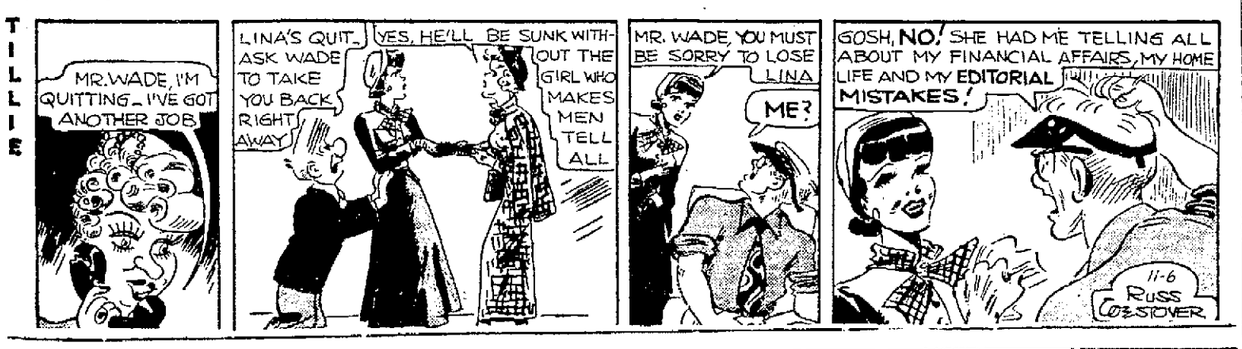
CAPTAIN CORMORANT BESS YOU..
TELL YOUR CAPTAIN TO GO TO BLAZES! WHY SHOULD I SEE HIM? HE WON'T LET ME GAMBLE...HE'S KEEPING ME A PRISONER... AND POOR CARLO WINTERBROOK'S LIFE IS AT STAKE, JUST BECAUSE I'M MISSING!
SHE REFUSES AGAIN, SIR.
ZOUNDS! HAS THE WOMAN NO HEART? WAIT A MOMENT...
TELL MISS BANNISTER THAT IF SHE WILL GRANT ME THE BOON OF ONE INTERVIEW, I WILL SET HER ASHORE! ON THE WORD OF AN OFFICER AND GENTLEMAN!

PENNY

WOW, WHAT A GAME! THEY'LL TRY RUSHING FOR A TOUCHDOWN NOW.
FATHER, MAY I HAVE THE GLASSES?
JUST A MINUTE. I DON'T WANT TO MISS THIS PLAY.
PLEASE, MAY I HAVE THEM, FATHER? I'VE JUST GOT TO SEE SOMETHING.
OKAY, HERE YOU ARE. I'M GLAD YOU'RE SO INTERESTED.
JUST AS I THOUGHT, IT'S INEZ. ALL RIGHT, SHE'S WITH WOODY AND SHE GOT THAT NEW LEOPARD COAT!

TILLIE



MR. WADE, I'M QUITTING—I'VE GOT ANOTHER JOB.
LINA'S QUIT. ASK WADE TO TAKE YOU BACK, RIGHT AWAY.
YES, HE'LL BE SUNK WITHOUT THE GIRL WHO MAKES MEN TELL ALL
MR. WADE, YOU MUST BE SORRY TO LOSE LINA.
ME?
GOSH, NO! SHE HAD ME TELLING ALL ABOUT MY FINANCIAL AFFAIRS, MY HOME LIFE AND MY EDITORIAL MISTAKES!

I'M USING THE RADAR PRINCIPAL, BUT INSTEAD OF THE WAVES BOUNCING BACK FROM ANY SOLID OBJECT, I'VE ADDED A FILTER BASED ON THE MOLECULAR STRUCTURE OF SILVER—SO THEY'LL ONLY BOUNCE BACK WHEN THEY STRIKE SILVER!
IN SHORT, IT'S A KIND OF DIVINING ROD FOR SILVER. SORRY I HAVEN'T TIME TO GIVE MORE DETAILS. THANKS FOR YOUR EQUIPMENT.

Wooster Grid Generals Out-Mud Madison Rams, 26 to 6

Tygers Slip, Slide to 12-to-6 Victory In Rain

Victors Use Every Play Imaginable

By CHARLEY STINE

WOOSTER—A lack of speed which has been apparent all year last night cost the Madison Rams their fourth defeat at the hands of a fleet, razzle-dazzle Wooster eleven. The score was 26-6.

Even rain, which turned Maurer field into a sea of mud halfway through the second quarter, failed to slow up the Generals. They used double laterals, pitch-outs, trap plays, and all sorts of fancy maneuvers regardless of the slipperiness of the ground and the ball.

Despite all the hipper-dipper, Wooster fumbled but once while Madison let the pigskin squirt away on five occasions—all at times when they appeared to be in a scoring drive.

A trap play through center was good for the first two Wooster touchdowns, a Madison end zone fumble cost the third and then the Generals powered through the mud for the fourth. Only then did the Rams move for the host team's goal with straight line bucks.

STAYS ON GROUND

Madison's passing attack, which was expected to be a major part of its offense last night, never was unwrapped except on the last play of the game. The Rams were doing well on the ground in the first quarter and after that any attempt to throw the wet ball accurately would have been futile.

As usual the Rams started out as if they meant business, driving to the Wooster 24-yard line after receiving the kickoff. Larry Secrist made a fine return of the opening boot to bring it back to the Madison 36. Secrist and Fullback Fred Durig carried on a series of off-tackle and line plunges which netted a first down at midfield and another on the Wooster 31. Two more runs carried to the 23 but Madison was penalized for offside and the drive was stopped.

The Generals scored after an exchange of punts on a 64-yard sustained march climaxed by Wes Snoddy's delayed buck through center from the 20. Bill Carlton split the uprights but Wooster was penalized 15 yards for holding and then failed to make the point good on a pass.

ENDS IN FUMBLE

Madison, to all appearances, was set on getting the touchdown back as it returned the kickoff to the 33, then made a first down on the Wooster 49. A reverse with Carl Theaker carrying, ended in a fumble, however, and Wooster recovered on the Madison 47. The Generals rang up three first downs, the last of which was made on the one-foot line before Ronnie Calabria bucked over. Carlton's kick was good to bring the score to 13-0.

Ed Chelski fumbled on Madison's first play from scrimmage and Wooster was on the march again. This time they bobbled on the ten-yard line but the Rams could run only one play before giving it back. This time Larry Secrist let the ball get away from him in the end zone, and Guard Sammy Gasbarre fell on it in the end zone for the third touchdown. Gasbarre also had recovered the first two Madison fumbles. Snoddy's buck for the point failed.

A terrific downpour had started just before Secrist made his fumble and continued through the rest of the first half to put a thick coating of mud on the field.

GOES FOR 95

Wooster's fourth score came when they drove the opening kickoff 95 yards on a sustained drive. The first 15 yards were eaten up by a Calabria-to-Snoddy reverse on the kick. Snoddy went through center from the two and Coppola went off left tackle for the extra point.

Back came the Rams in a hurry and this time they held onto the ball. Chelski returned the kickoff to the Madison 37 and Fred Durig made a first down on the Madison 47 on two spinner plays. Larry Secrist galloped 23 yards off tackle. Three more carries brought another first down on the 20, from where Durig broke loose through center. He was into the open but slipped and fell on the four. Two more plunges through center carried him home, however. Don Hartman's attempted place kick was partially blocked and went wide to the right.

The defeat was the fourth in eight games for Madison. They have one to

Buffalo Bills Should Take Eastern Lead

By LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK —(NS)— The Buffalo Bills have an excellent chance to take undisputed possession of first place in the eastern division of the All-America football conference tomorrow.

Currently the bills are tied with the Baltimore Colts for the lead. The Colts, however, face almost sure defeat by the Browns in Cleveland, thus creating a golden opportunity for the Bills, who will face the tail-end Dodgers in Brooklyn.

For the first time this season, the Dodgers will have their $500,000 backfield in action as a unit. This quarter consists of Bob Hoernschemeyer at quarterback, Bob Chappuis at left half, Monk Gafford at right half, and Mickey Colmer at fullback.

YANKEES UNDERDOG

The New York Yankees will entertain Glenn Dobbs and his Los Angeles Dons. Los Angeles is the favorite.

San Francisco's 49'ers look too powerful for the rail-end Chicago Rockets.

The patronage war in the New York area will be on again in full blast, with the Philadelphia Eagles invading the Polo grounds to play the New York Giants.

The Eagles, considered by Coach Greasy Neale the best team he ever assembled in his long career, are favored. They must win to retain first place in the eastern division of the National Football league, because the second-place Washington Redskins seem to be assured of a victory over the Boston Yanks.

Chicago's Bears should conquer the Los Angeles Rams, and the Green Bay Packers may win from Pittsburg in a tough game.

French Stallion Kills Self In Air

LONDON — (AP) — The $250,000 French stallion Djelal went mad with fright aboard a plane above the English channel yesterday and killed himself.

The animal was being flown from France to Kentucky. An American syndicate of breeders recently purchased him from Marcel Boussac, a leading French owner.

Officials at Bovingdon airport near here said it was a wonder the horse didn't kick himself clear out of the plane.

Shelby Club Falls Before Rams, 6 to 0

By JOHN PATRICK

SHELBY—The Upper Sandusky Rams eked out a 6 to 0 win over the Shelby Whippets in the mud and rain here last night in a game that can classify the Whippets as the hard luck team of the year.

Completely outplaying the Rams in every quarter of the game the Whippets lost out when Bosey returned a punt for 63 yards and a touchdown in the driving rain.

The Rams made only one first down in the entire game. They made only 30 yards rushing and lost 53 yards rushing, actually giving them a net loss of 23 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Meanwhile, Shelby made nine first downs. Made 186 yards rushing and lost 20 yards rushing, giving the Whippets a net gain of 166 yards from the line of scrimmage and yet lost the ball game.

GOES FOR SCORE

In the first quarter the smashing defensive play of the Whippets forced Smalley to kick, the ball slithering through the mud to rest on the Shelby 39. Three tries by Dennis and Berry netted six yards and Utz then juggled the slippery ball and finally sent up a bobbling punt that was taken by Bosey on his own 37 who cut down the sidelines for 63 yards to score. Bosey attempted to run the extra point but failed.

In the second quarter the Whippets drove from their own 28 to the Rams' one-yard line on beautiful runs by Berry and Moore but could not crack the Rams' defense on four attempts to score.

ONLY ONE THREAT

The amazing part of the entire game was that the Rams entered Shelby territory only one time, with the exception of Bosey's run. They made their first down in the last period on the Shelby 43-yard line, but were immediately thrown for one, seven and 14 yard losses, respectively.

Upper Sandusky can thank the kicking of Smalley for guarding its victory last night. Time after time he booted the Rams out of danger with kicks of 79, 77, 54 and 52 yards in the mud and rain.

Shelby smashed into scoring territory five times during the game but the Rams stiffened to regain the ball.

Bellville Blue Jays Swim To Eighth Victory, 25 to 0

NEW LONDON—Fumbles cost the underdog New London Wildcats a 25-0 defeat at the hands of the undefeated Bellville Blue Jays here last night. The Blue Jays rolled to their eighth straight victory in a game played in a continuous downpour.

Bellville got its first touchdown in the first minute as New London's Randleman fumbled the opening kickoff on the ten-yard line. Jim Gleason ripped through center on the first play from scrimmage for the score.

Gleason brought his scoring record to 111 points as he later carried for another score and plunge for an extra point. Bill Balliett, Bellville's No. 2 back, scored twice to bring his total to 90 points for the season. Three of the four touchdowns were set up by fumbles.

Balliett's second score came in the second quarter when he stole the ball out of a host ball carrier's hands and went 18 yards to paydirt. Bellville had eight first downs to New London's five and gained 232 yards to the Wildcats' 106.

Millersburg Ends Streak Of Loudonville

LOUDONVILLE — A muddy field slowed down Loudonville's quick opening attack here last night to cost the Red Birds a 13-0 defeat at the hands of their traditional rival, Millersburg.

The loss was Loudonville's first in Mohican league play and eliminated it from any chance of undisputed possession of the title.

Millersburg used its weight to good advantage on the slippery turf. Hall, the invaders' fullback, set up the first score with a 34-yard run to the ten and then Skelley cracked over two plays later from the five.

In the third period Millersburg scored again when Loudonville fumbled after holding for downs on their own 11 yard line. Millersburg recovered on the four from where Snyder bulled over.

The American Legion rotating trophy presented annually to the winner of the Loudonville-Millersburg game was awarded by Loudonville Legion Commander George Lavengood. Millersburg now has two legs on the trophy and can win it by adding a third.

Gregorio's 70-Yard Sprint Breaks Tie

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor

Mansfield Senior high school's highly-favored Tygers escaped with a sloshy 12-to-6 victory over Marion Harding's Presidents at Arlin field last night, thanks to that great equalizer—rain.

The rain came down in torrents throughout the contest, making the ball more than slippery and giving the backs of both teams a rough way to go. Ten fumbles, seven of them by the Tygers, marred the contest which was not decided until the last six minutes.

Then Lou (Double No-Hit) Gregorio went off guard for some 70 yards to give the football lads of Coach Augie Morningstar their sixth victory in eight contests. The Marion secondary was playing in close when Gregorio shot through the line on second down. He quickly saw light and walked away from the Harding defenders. It was simple as all that.

GOOD BALL GAME

But before Gregorio's sparkling dash, the 6,000 rain-soaked fans were treated to quite a ball game. Marion, a four-touchdown underdog, fought valiantly the rest of the way. The Presidents got to the 11 in the second quarter and to the 22 in the fourth for their only threats besides their single touchdown. An alert Mansfield defense tossed Harding for losses to end both threats.

Those frequent Mansfield bobbles gave Marion all of its scoring opportunities and also nixed all but two of the Tygers' marches. The fumbles and a mess of penalties for clipping and unnecessary roughness constituted Marion's best defensive measures.

A clipping infraction kept Mansfield from getting a third TD. Harry Osbun, a great personage on defense, recovered a Marion fumble on the 41. On the first play, Paul "Pinkie" Ferguson faked a handoff and swept wide behind fine blocking and went 59 yards for an apparent score. However, an over-zealous Mansfield lineman had clipped on the 48 and the ball wound up way back on the Mansfield 37.

PACE STATISTICS

The Tygers had much the better of the statistics in all departments except punting. Mansfield had eight first downs to four for the visitors and out-gained them on the ground, 286 to 104. Gregorio had 89 yards, A. C. Jenkins, 68, and Capt. Joe Miller, 60.

Clarence Smith, who did everything except inflate the leather for the Presidents, averaged 31 yards on five boots of the soggy pigskin. He got off a couple of poor ones but had a 48 and a 46 yarder. The second was a surprising quick-kick which sailed over Little Tommy Tucker's head to the 12. The Mansfield speedster returned it to the 19.

But that kick set the stage for Marion's lone score. Tucker went off-tackle to the 20. On the ensuing play, Ferguson tried a pitchout to Tucker. However, Chuck Carpenter, a 163-pound sub tackle, broke through fast enough to deflect the ball. A wild scramble followed with Marion finally flagging the squirming oval on the six.

BISHOP SCORES

Big Jack Bishop hit the line three times to go over. That made the score 6-6. Bishop carried three more times for the extra point but was stopped on each try. The first time Mansfield was offside, and on the second both teams broke before the center snapped the ball.

Another Osbun fumble recovery on the Mansfield 43 gave the Tygers the impetus for their first score. Miller got ten on a cake-walking sweep and Jenkins roared nine on a trap. Jenkins, Tucker and Miller alternated to take the ball to the 28. Then Miller went off-guard on a quick opener for the tally. Howie Tipper's kick was no good.

Gregorio almost had another score in the fourth period. With the ball on the 41, Lou broke into the clear. He was hit unexpectedly from behind on the 25 and fumbled, Marion recovering. On the same play, Jim Miller was penalized 15 yards.

from the tyger lair

By BILL HERRING

An omen of what was in store came at the pre-kick-off huddle of the two teams when a heavy rain fell. The shower continued throughout, leaving the field a quagmire by halftime. By the time the fans reached downtown the merest trinkle was the lone reminder of the spotty time.

★

A President fumble on the Mansfield 43 in the first quarter touched off the initial scoring drive with Miller erasing the final 28 yards. The muddy Tyger uniform made it hard to distinguish Miller from the red-jerseyed Presidents. Mansfield returned for the final half in spotless white jerseys.

★

A Marion defensive holding penalty as the second quarter got under way gave the Tygers a first down on their 18 but it was nullified in short order as Jenkins' fumble was recovered by the visitors on Mansfield's 34.

★

After mud had been wiped off players Jenkins, on a quick opening play, gave Mansfield a first down on its 34 and Tucker notched another first down to the Marion 46 on a spinner. Marion snared Ferguson's fumble and kicked to the Tyger 37 as the half ended.

★

The press box windows offered a haven for top row fans who thoughtlessly opened umbrellas to limit the view of the scribes.

★

Vicious Mansfield tackling, led by Osbun, Bernie Weaver and Jim Miller, sparked a spirited Tyger third quarter battle.

★

A double fumble at the end of the third quarter set the stage for the Marion tally. It found Marion gaining possession on the Tyger 16. Bishop spearheaded the goal-ward charge that brought the pigskin to the one-yard stripe at the whistle.

Marion's Bishop plunged over for the TD to start the final quarter.

★

A Letiza bobble gave Marion the ball on the Tyger 23 but the Presidents lost five for having their backfield in motion. On fourth down Marion had 13 to go on the Tyger 26 when Mansfield spilled through the invaders' defense and took over on the Tyger 29.

★

At this point Gregorio sloshed for the greatest run of the game—a 70-yard 'spurt' that crossed pay dirt to post the 12-6 score. Ferguson's fumble on the point-try plunge was recovered by Marion so it remained 12-6.

★

The final play of the fray found Ferguson sliding for a first down on the Marion 19. This final thrust started on the visitors' 33.

★

A departing Marion scribe's remark fell on welcome ears when he said:

"They take their football seriously over here."

The Dramatic Life of Job — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Job

"There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job." He was a good man, upright and God-fearing, and he was also very rich, but generous with his wealth.

Satan told Jehovah that Job would not be true to Him if he lost his wealth and his ten children, and the Lord told Satan to try Job by taking his possessions away from him.

Job kept his faith in Jehovah through these calamities, so Satan suggested that he be afflicted with boils to try him still further, but even in his agony Job was true.

Through all of his sufferings, in mind and body, Job was faithful, and God came to him, praised him, restored his riches and gave him more children.

MEMORY VERSE—JOB 37:14.

Festival Date Set

Money, Food Go to Needy

The Methodist Youth Fellowships of Richland county will hold their annual booth festival at the First Methodist church at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Each fellowship has solicited canned food and money from families in its church. The food will be displayed in booths at the festival.

Contests will be held to decide which booth has the most food and to determine the most attractive booth.

The food and money will be divided into three parts. One-third will go to the Elyria Home for the Aged, one-third to the Berea Home for Children, and the remainder to the White Cross hospital in Columbus.

Charles Nail jr. and Thomas Owen are co-chairmen of the festival.

Services End Sunday

Rev. John C. Ramsay, who has been conducting a preaching mission at the First United Presbyterian church, will bring the mission to a close Sunday night.

The reception of new members will feature the closing service, which followed a visitation mission of church members. Tonight is "Children and Youth Night" at the church with Dr. Ramsay presiding. Special music will be furnished by the junior choir and Youth clubs as well as women's trio.

Saturday Night Sessions Popular With Youths

Boys Mix Parties With Bible Studies

By NITA BRANSON
(News-Journal Church Editor)

It's Saturday night at the Grace Brethren church. Ordinarily, it would be a night of quiet in the church parlors. But Saturday night at the church is now "Boys' Club" night, and that means lights on and work benches out and an evening of hobby making or recreation.

The story of the Boys' Club at Grace Brethren church also is the story of a man as well as the 40 or 50 boys who gather there weekly.

It is the story of a man who likes boys and the things he can do for them. The man is Henry Hassig, 'who although not a member of the church, takes an active part in its affairs and even leads the choir.

Hassig's interest in boys began back in Fort Wayne where he started a club for boys. He was transferred to Mansfield and decided that each Saturday night when he was "off the road" and home, he would do a similar job here.

So he contacted Rev. Bernard Schneider, pastor of the Grace Brethren church, and the "boys' Club" is the result.

VARIED ACTIVITIES

"Activity of the club varies," Hassig said. "One night it is hobby night with the boys working on airplanes, belts, or delving into the mysteries of plastic materials. Or another Saturday night, the boys enjoy movies such as sports reels, comics, nature studies and travel and occasionally a religious film—the kind a boy should see. Sometimes the sessions get very informal and we have boxing or games."

In addition to this varied program, Hassig tells a Bible story each Saturday night, applying the story to the boys' own lives. Chorus singing and scripture memorizing also are included in the evening's program. Club meetings are always closed with prayer.

Hassig and his assistants, Robert Metzger and Jack Shenberger believe that "boys of today are the leaders of tomorrow and that all boys should have Christian leadership and training."

REACH ALL GROUPS

A special effort is made to reach the boys who do not go to Sunday school any place, and about half the boys fall into this group.

There are no club dues and the only expense to the boys is the cost of the materials they use in their hobby-making. A party and snacks occasionally brighten the nightly club doings. The snacks mean "Sloppy Joes" and other foods boys like. At other times someone treats and there are candy bars for each one.

One of the most interestinng evenings is "Dad's Night" when the boys take their fathers to the Saturday night session.

The club will be two years old in December. Hassig feels that it has definitely paid off.

"If you could see the changes in the lives of some of the boys, you would know that it has," he declared.

Church Rooms Renovated

The work of renovating the church parlors of the First Presbyterian church has been completed and the parlors are now in use.

The renewed use of the parlors will provide space for some rearrangement of class locations. Capt. Stevenson's class again will meet in its former place in the parlors.

The senior high class will meet as usual in the sanctuary for opening worship, but will go to the dining room for class session instead of to its former room in the parish house.

All the junior high classes will meet for opening worship in the assembly room in the parish house. The worship program will be conducted by the Faith and Life committee of the Junior High fellowship. Classes will meet as usual for the lesson study.

Young People Form Fellowship Group

A junior Pilgrim Fellowship group for boys and girls in the seventh and eighth grades will be formed Sunday at 5 p. m., in the parish house of the First Congregational church. The new group will be under the supervision of Rev. Matthew G. Madden, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Baer and Mrs. H. E. Edwards.

Churches Pay Tribute To Great Hymn Writers

Mansfield and Richland county churches will be asked to join the National Federation of Music Clubs and the Hymn Society of America in a nation-wide observance of the anhiversary of the death of Isaac Watts, great English hymn writer, who died Nov. 25, 1748.

The observance will be held under the supervision of the Mansfield Music Study club. Letters will be sent to pastors next week asking their cooperation.

The concentration on Isaac Watts' hymns will be a part of the year-round celebration in which "Hymns of the Month," will be selected and churches will be asked to sing them. The first such hymn is the "Church's One Foundation," a favorite with congregations. Music directors and pastors will be asked to include this hymn in their Sunday worships during the month of November.

"Plans for this observance began a year ago," Harold McCuen, president of the Mansfield Study club, said. "Now we are ready to start the actual observance, with a nation-wide singing of the first chosen hymn."

Since the anniversary of Watts' death comes this year on Thanksgiving Day, churches are being asked to concentrate on his hymns for Thanksgiving worship services. Watts wrote such familiar hymns as "Jesus Shall Reign," "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?" "Come Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove," and others equally well-known.

DISCUSS PROJECT

Special attention was given to the project at the recent district meeting of the Ohio Music Club Federation at Loudonville. Dr. Ellis Snyder of Capital university, led the group in singing the first three hymns selected and a number of Watts' songs. In addition to "The Church's One Foundation," there are "Comfort, Comfort Ye My People" and "Jesus Shall Reign," one to be featured in December and the other in January.

HAROLD McCUEN

The observance has been extended by the National Federation of Music clubs and the Hymn society of America, to include all YMCA and YWCA associations, all music clubs of the contry, colleges and schools of music.

Mrs. Walter H. Jones of Wooster is district chairman for the hymn sing project and Miss Nita Branson is local chairman.
